

Professional Speaking

Stephen Harrison

As a professional speaker I have an active interest in areas related to leadership of self and others, how to thrive in a changing [personal / business] environment, and manifesting your personal power.

I am available for keynotes, dinner speeches, and other occasions. Areas of focus for my speaking include leading self, leading others and manifesting your power. Examples of some topics include:

- Appreciate the Fog: how to harvest value from chaos, confusion and uncertainty in changing situations
- Tapping in on and manifesting your personal power
- Changing your F's (Fight, Flight, Freeze and Fabricate) to A's (Assert, Attend, Act and Authenticate) and taking responsibility for your results
- A leadership model of growth and development
- Project management, change management and strategic management topics
- Coping with massive and unexpected change in a powerful way

In a Nutshell

Stephen speaks on leading self, leading others, thriving amidst change, and manifesting personal power.

Primary Audience

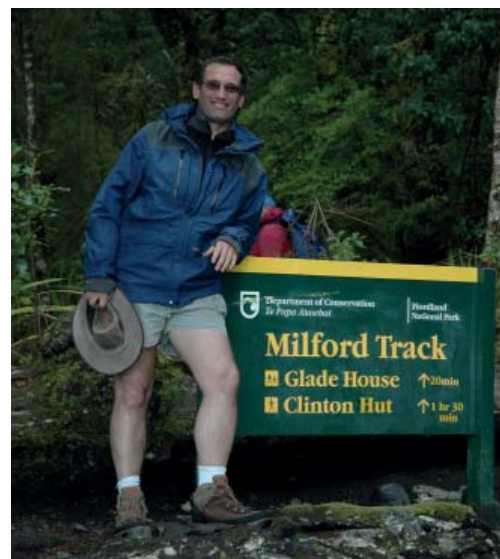

- Conference organisers
- Senior leaders, human resource managers, or others responsible for organising an event (conference, company/executive/team off-site, function)

Key Speaking Topics

- Leading self (personal leadership)
- Leading others
- Manifesting personal power
- Thriving within a changing [personal/business] environment
- Project and change management related themes

- Strengthening and deepening the relationship with self

My style is relaxed, informative, humorous and challenging. I weave facts, anecdotes, insights, story and questions into a speech that informs, entertains and expands, taking the audience on a journey that may contain the odd surprise along the way, and will have a satisfying destination. I will challenge your mind, touch your emotions and feed your soul. I may even get you out of your seats.

Consult with me on the purpose and intent of your event, and the audience you have, and we can shape something together that will suit your purpose.